Defining Personality

- Personality is a dynamic concept describing the growth and development of a person's whole psychological system.
- The sum total of ways in which an individual reacts to and interacts with others.

Introduction to Personality

- Set of qualities that make a person distinct from another
- Concerned with the psych and mental pattern of the individual – how they react with internal and external environment
- Latin word – ‘persona’ – wearing a mask
- How one presents to the world, how one sees a person
- Effect which an individual leaves on other people
- Depicts total picture of an individual

Personality – Job - Link

- Resume: achievements, on the feet thinking, team events, leadership, crisis management
- Group Discussion : leadership initiative, positive approach, consensus building, lateral thinking, listening, communication, extroversion/introversion
- Job Interview : Proactiveness, description of strengths and weaknesses, response to stress questions

Determinants of Personality

- Is personality the result of heredity or environment?
- Heredity refers to those factors that were determined at conception.
 - The heredity approach argues that the ultimate explanation of an individual's personality is the molecular structure of the genes, located in the chromosomes
 - Also shaped by environment in the formative years

Jung's Personality Theory

- Jung believed that preferences are innate—"inborn predispositions"
- He also recognized that they are shaped by environmental influences, such as family, culture, and education
