

Marketing Management: Key Concepts and Strategies

BITS Pilani

Pilani | Dubai | Goa | Hyderabad

Dr. Jayashree Mahesh,
Department of Management, BITS Pilani.

What is Marketing?

- Management process to identify, anticipate, and satisfy customer needs profitably.
- Focuses on satisfying needs and wants through exchange.
- Aim: To make selling superfluous (Peter Drucker).
- 10 different types of entities namely goods, services, experiences, events, persons, places properties, organizations, information and ideas.
- Example: Apple focuses on understanding customer needs for user-friendly technology, creating products that customers desire, reducing the need for aggressive selling.

Key Marketing Concepts

- Exchange: Offering something in return for a desired product.
- Market: Actual and potential buyers of a product.
- Need: Basic human requirements.
- Wants: Needs directed at specific objects.
- Demand: Wants backed by purchasing power.

Scope of Marketing

- Identifying needs, wants, and demands.
- Identifying target markets and segments.
- Scanning the environment.
- Analyzing consumer/business markets.
- Dealing with competitors.
- Designing and maintaining the marketing mix.
- Managing distribution channels.
- Managing integrated marketing communications.

Marketing vs. Selling

Selling:

- Focuses on the needs of the seller.
- Focuses on existing products.
- Aims at profits through sales volume.

Marketing

- Focuses on the needs of the buyer.
- Focuses on customer needs.
- Aims at profits through customer satisfaction.

The Marketing Mix (4 Ps)

- Product: Anything offered to satisfy a want or need (goods, services).
- Price: The amount of money exchanged for the product.
- Place (Distribution): Getting the product to the consumer at the right location and time.
- Promotion: Informing, persuading, and reminding customers about the product.

The 5 Levels of a Product

- Core Benefit: The fundamental need the product fulfills.
- Basic Product: A basic version of the product.
- Expected Product: Attributes customers expect.
- Augmented Product: Features that exceed expectations.
- Potential Product: All possible future enhancements.

The Extended Marketing Mix: The 7 Ps (for Services)

- People: Any person representing the organization.
- Process: Procedures and activities that deliver the service.
- Physical Evidence: Tangible aspects of the service.

Marketing Research

- Systematic gathering, recording, and analyzing data about marketing problems.
- Helps in planning, problem-solving, and controlling.
- Scope of MR
 - Consumers of products & services
 - Product & product design
 - Pricing, Sourcing, Physical attributes
 - Distribution Channels
 - Advertising Impact
 - Macro Level Phenomenon

Strategic Categories of Marketing Research

- Market analysis
- Market segmentation
- Marketing strategy design
- Analyzing marketing performance
- Example – Surf Vs Nirma

Steps in Marketing Research

- Defining the research problem
- Determining research design and data sources
- Developing sample design and sample size
- Developing measurement instruments
- Collecting and preparing data
- Analyzing and interpreting data
- Communicating results

Research Design

- Exploratory: Gathering background information.
- Descriptive: Describing characteristics of a population.
- Causal: Identifying cause-and-effect relationships.

Data Sources

- Secondary Data: Existing data.
 - Internal: Company reports, sales data.
 - External: Government statistics, trade publications.
- Primary Data: Data collected for the specific research purpose.

Communicating Results

- Speak in managerial terms.
- Outline technical details in an appendix.
- Provide clear, concise, and actionable conclusions.
- Include an executive summary, objectives, methodology, summary, and recommendations.

Conclusion

- Marketing management is crucial for business success.
- Understanding key concepts and strategies is essential.
- Marketing research provides valuable insights for decision-making.

Examples of Successful Marketing Strategies

- <https://thegeekylogic.com/a-marketing-masterclass-nish-hairs-marketing-strategy-is-pure-gold/>
- <https://thegeekylogic.com/fevicol-marketing-strategy-hidden-insights/>
- <https://winnerbrands.in/brand-spotlight-case-studies/how-surf-became-a-billion-dollar-brand/>